ZEPPELIN BREAKS RECORD IN OCEAN FLIGHT

CROSSES ATLANTIC IN 55 HOURS AND 20 MINUTES

GIANT SHIP CARRIES TWENTY-TWO PASSENGERS AND CREW OF 40 MEN

GRAF LOWERED ITS OWN FLIGHT
MARK BY 13 HOURS AND 26 MINUTES

By MAURITZ HALLGREN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Friedrichshafen, Germany, Aug. 10.—Germany's mighty mistress of the air, the dirigible Graf Zeppelin, returned triumphantly to its home base at Friedrichshafen at 1:02 P. M. (6:02 A. M. EST) today after a record-breaking transatlantic flight from the United States.

The giant ship, carrying 22 passengers and a crew of 40 men, landed at the airport just 55 hours and 20 minutes after it had taken off from Lakehurst, N. J., at 11:42 P. M. last Wednesday night, thus lowering her own record for the flight by 13 hours and 26 minutes. It was regarded by many experts as the most sensational flight ever accomplished by a lighter-than-air craft.

It was a triumph for the Zeppelin type of dirigible and a triumph for the skill of Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf, whose faith in his ship did not waver even when it met with failure on a previous attempt to fly to the United States.

At that time, in May, when the Zeppelin was forced down in France because of motor trouble, Dr. Eckener stood staunchly by and stated that notwithstanding the failure the Zeppelin was still the logical type of ship for air navigation. This round-trip voyage to the United States bore him out, in the opinion of experts.

The mammoth dirigible took but little less than 44 hours to cross the Atlantic from Lakehurst to the southernmost point of the British Isles. Passengers said today when they landed that there was great excitement aboard when it became apparent that transatlantic history was being made—excitement among everybody excepting the grizzled veteran of the skies, Dr. Eckener himself.

The commander merely continued studying his charts and watching the progress of the flight. While he may have felt an inner satisfaction at having made such record-breaking time, he failed to display any emotion.

From early morning there was a steady stream of people filing out to the airport here in the hope of finding a spot from which they could watch the airship make its landing and to cheer the commander who for the second time within a year managed to cross to the United States and back over the hazardous Atlantic.

The ground crew was prepared perfectly for its task and worked practically all night to facilitate a good landing, taking all sorts of precautions to prevent any possible mishaps in landing.

The flight from Lakehurst to Friedrichshafen was the first part of a commercial tour of the world which the Zeppelin will make.

HOOVER OBSERVES 55TH BIRTHDAY QUIETLY TODAY

AMID COOL EVERGREENS OF HIS MOUNTAIN-TOP CAMP IN SHENANDOAH PARK

ENTIRE FAMILY PRESENT AT CAMP NEAR MADISON,
VIRGINIA

Madison, Va., Aug. 10.—(U.P.)—President Hoover observed his 55th birthday quietly today amid the cool evergreens of his mountain-top camp in Shenandoah Park.

Although his entire family was in camp together for the first time, there were no plans for a birthday party. In keeping with a long standing Hoover tradition, the president planned no special activity for the day. His birthday, according to his intimates, always has been a day unmarked from all others.

The presidential party motored to camp yesterday afternoon, accompanied by Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde, Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, who are week-end guests of the chief executive for the first time, and a party of fifteen.

Other guests are Surgeon General and Mrs. Hugh S. Cumming and their son, Hugh, Jr., William Allen White, Mark Sullivan, Lawrence Richey, White House secretary; Lieut. Commander Joel T. Boone, the president's physician; and Mrs. Jeremiah Milbank, of New York.

Allan Hoover, the president's youngest son, who remained in camp all week with his mother, to recover his strength and appetite after a minor stomach disorder, was reported today to be greatly improved by the camp life.

Pantages was held in jail awaiting arraignment.

State Officials, Private Citizens Loud in Their Praise of Minnesota Highway Patrol

CAPTURED THREE BANDITS TWO HOURS AFTER THE ROBBERY

2 OF BANDIT SUSPECTS IN HEN-
NAPIN COUNTY JAIL, HEAR-
ING AUGUST 20

THIRD LIES IN HOSPITAL SERI-OUSLY HURT FROM GUN
SHOT WOUNDS

Minneapolis, Aug. 10.—(U.P.)—State officials and scores of private citizens were loud in their praise today of the recently organized Minnesota state highway patrol which was credited with the capture of the three bandits less than two hours after the Elk River First National Bank was robbed of $7,200.

Two of the bandit suspects, tentatively identified as Donald Millivan and Ray Salmon, wanted in the holdup of a Gilmore City, Iowa, bank, were in Hennepin county jail here on first degree robbery charges. Their preliminary hearing was set for August 20.

The third bandit, believed to be August Becker of Summer, Ia., lay seriously injured from gun shot wounds. He was forced to undergo an operation for amputation of one arm, the result of bullets from the revolver of Earle Brown, former Hennepin county sheriff and now head of the highway patrol.

The girl member of the bandit gang, who gave her name as Alice Hull Steis, 18 years old, of Minneapolis, was expected to be arraigned today on charges of receiving stolen property. She was said to have been in possession of part of the Elk River loot when captured.

Meanwhile Brown, Minnesota's "millionaire police officer," modestly disclaimed any credit for the highway patrol in the capture of the three men. "The highway patrol," Brown said, "was organized to control motor car traffic on the Minnesota highways. It should be understood that Mike Auspos, the patrolman who accompanied me, and myself were acting in the capacity of private citizens when we set out after the robbers."

Among the state officers who complimented the highway department on its work were W. R. Rhinow, superintendent of the state department of criminal apprehension, and A. G. Youngquist, state attorney general.

Both hailed the patrol as a needed organization in the war against criminals in Minnesota and declared that the capture of the Elk River suspects should prove a lesson to other criminals in the state.

Appearing at the home of Dr. G. E. Page in Elk River early Friday morning the three bandits gained admittance through the pretense of seeking medical aid for an injured member of their party. Dr. Page who was out of town was summoned to his home by his wife. Upon his arrival the bandits revealed their intention of robbing the Elk River bank, and waited for two hours in the Page home until T. M. Olson, cashier of the bank, passed the house.

Mrs. Page was ordered to ask Olson

THIRD 'TORCH' MURDER FOUND IN NEW JERSEY

Newark, N. J., Aug. 10.—(U.P.)—The charred skeleton of a man, propped upright in the rear of an expensive automobile, was found in the squalor of the city dump last night.

It was the third "torch" murder in New Jersey in the last two years. The watchman of the dump turned in a fire alarm when he saw two men set the automobile afire and flee.

inside, whereupon two of the bandits forced the doctor and cashier to accompany them to the bank in an automobile while the third member of the gang remained to guard Mrs. Page. After looting the bank in the presence of two assistant cashiers and two customers, the bandits drove Olson and Dr. Page back to the latter's home where they were released. The third bandit joined the other two who fled in the direction of Zimmerman.

An hour later the three members of the band and the girl companion, apparently picked up between Elk River and Zimmerman, were captured after a lively shooting affray with Brown and Auspos who were sent on their trail at Elk River while motoring through the town.

Doubt still remained today as to the correct identity of the two uninjured members of the gang—Millivan and Salmon. The two gave their names, when questioned by Sherbourne and Hennepin county authorities, as John Reilly and Henry Buhr, but the officials claimed their descriptions duplicated those of the Gilmore City bandits.

"BABY FACE" WILLIE DOODY BUSY AGAIN

ING POSSESSION OF ILLINOIS
CENTRAL TRAIN

MER POLICEMAN

Chicago, Aug. 10.—(U.P.)—Three bandits, one of whom police believe was "Baby Face" Willie Doody, sought for murder and robbery, took possession of an Illinois Central suburban train as it pulled out of Roosevelt Road station last night.

They shot and killed Delbert Sudds, 53, a former policeman guarding Jeremiah Carey, 65, collector for the railroad who was collecting the day's receipts from suburban stations.

For two miles until they jumped off at 27th street and fled in a waiting automobile with $4,000 they obtained from Carey after disarming him, the gunmen terrorized 17 passengers and the train crew.

A masked bandit fired into Sudds' face, killing him instantly when the messenger reached for his gun.

TO ELIMINATE 34 CENT BASIC WOOL RATE

REPUBLICAN MEMBERS OF SEN-ATE FINANCE COMMITTEE
STAND FOR 31 CENTS

ARE MINDFUL OF WHAT FOL-LOWED OVERTURN OF SUCH
DUTY IN 1909 BILL

By PAUL R. MALLON

Washington, Aug. 10.—Mindful of the presidential election defeat after the old schedule K wool flight of 20 years ago, republican members of the senate finance committee have decided to eliminate the 34 cent basic wool rate of the house tariff bill and stand for 31 cents, the present duty.

The only republican presidential overturn of this century has been generally attributed by students of politics in Washington to the fight over the high wool of schedule K in the Payne-Aldrich bill of 1909. It was then the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin came into national prominence, leading the rebellion against the republican rate, and contending it would materially increase the price of clothes and necessary articles of the house in which wool is the chief ingredient.

Arrival of that political storm which resulted in the defeat of William Howard Taft for re-election in 1912 was threatened this year by those opposed to the high wool rate, after the bill had passed the house. During the senate hearings, wool growers contended that the increased duty was necessary.

Next to sugar, wool is of primary economic and political importance in the new tariff bill. Reduction of the wool rate probably will settle the argument over that commodity as far as the senate is concerned and leave it to a joint committee of the house and senate to decide whether any increase would be granted.

ADMIRERS FILE PAST BERGER BIER

SOCIALIST'S BODY LIES IN TEM-PORARY SHRINE AT MIL-WAUKEE CITY HALL

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 10.—(U.P.)—An endless stream of admirers filed past the body of Victor L. Berger today at a temporary shrine where the socialist leader's body lies in state in the rotunda of the city hall.

Most of the mourners were from the "masses," the term applied to the laboring class Berger had fought for in his 30 years of socialist activities. Estimates of the mourners who have tipped through the rotunda since yesterday noon ran as high as 75,000. Other thousands waited their turn today for a last glimpse of their leader before the body is taken this afternoon in a great funeral procession through the streets to Forest Home cemetery.

The services will be held out of doors at the cemetery and will be as simple as possible in deference to Berger's last wishes. Thousands are expected at the ceremonies including prominent socialists and politicians of more conservative faiths who admired Berger.

SITUATION IS ACUTE THROUGHOUT CALIFORNIA AREA

BADGER CREEK FIRE IN NORTH-ERN PART OF STATE IS RE-NEWED MENACE

RESIDENTS OF TOWNS IN PATH
FLEE ALONG SINGLE TRAIL FROM FLAMES

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 10.—(U.P.)—The forest fire situation throughout California remained acute today.

The Badger creek fire in the northern part of the state took on renewed menace.

This fire, which already has destroyed valuable stands of yellow pine and cedar, a $10,000 automobile camp and hundreds of deer and cattle, was believed checked yesterday at the very edge of the town of Hawkinsville.

This morning it was out of control again, having unexpectedly swept up Cayuse Gulch and into the Big Ham-burg country, virtually encircling the town. Residents fled for their lives through the only path remaining free of the flames.

Emergency calls for aid were sent to Yreka, two miles south.

Ranchers in the Hawkinsville area attempted to move belongings in automobiles and trucks, but were unable to drive through the fire and had to abandon machines and flee on foot.

Three thousand acres have been burned so far.

The great San Luis Obispo fire, which has already reduced 20,000 acres to ruins, was being fought on three fronts by more than 300 men. Fire fighters included prisoners released from the county jail at San Luis Obispo.

In Tuolumne county, buildings of the Juniper mine at Stent were reported burned. Loss was estimated at $50,000.

No additional depredations from incendiaries were reported during the night. Federal and state investigation of the 30 fires set so far by "fire pots" and sunglasses continued unabated.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 10.—After more than a week of fighting by more than 1,000 men, the Pacific northwest's greatest enemy—fire in the forests—still held the upper hand today at half a dozen different points along the battle front.

State fire wardens were broadcasting calls for more men to fight a blaze which broke out late yesterday a few miles from Portland and was raging through timber and grain lands.

Fire which started Wednesday on Whiskey creek in Crater National Forest, southern Oregon, was still out of control today.

SHOT HIS AGED WIFE TO END HER SUFFERING

Lawrence, Kas., Aug. 10.—(U.P.)—Fred Erb, 75, stoically prepared to begin his life sentence today for the murder of his invalid wife, content that his request to attend her funeral had been granted.

Erb was convicted of first degree murder yesterday after he had confessed he shot his 75-year-old spouse because he "couldn't bear to see her suffer longer."

Erb was frustrated in his attempt to commit suicide after his wife's death when his revolver jammed.

Lawrence, Kas., Aug. 10.—A 75-year-old man today was taken to the Kansas state penitentiary at Lansing to serve a life sentence for the murder of his 75-year-old wife.

That sentence of life, however, will not be long. Fred Erb looks forward to a pardon—but not from the governor.

"Susan and I have never been apart before," he said as he left. "We won't be apart long now. The doctor promised me that before what happened Thursday."

"What happened Thursday," was that Erb, dying from an incurable disease, shot his invalid wife because he "couldn't bear to see her suffer longer." His attempt to commit suicide after his wife's death was frustrated when his revolver jammed.

He waived preliminary hearing, and calmly pleaded guilty at his trial. He was sentenced to life imprisonment yesterday.

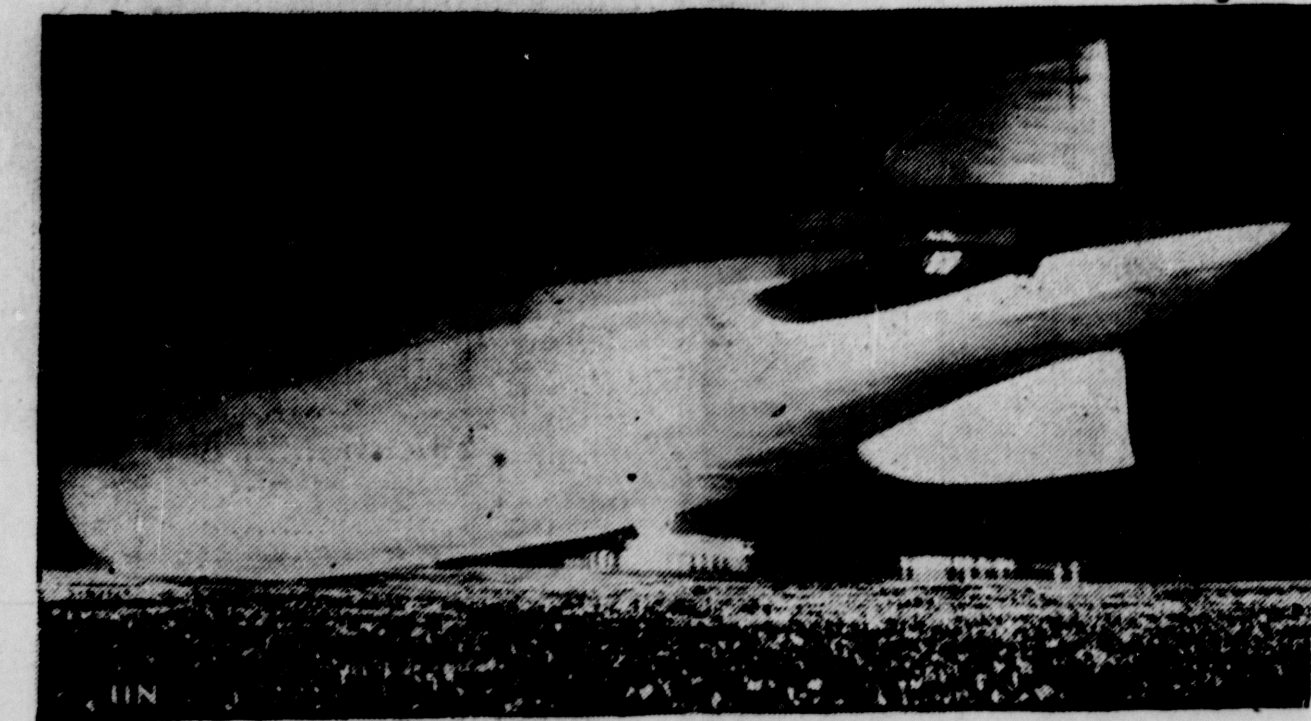

Although he was refused permission to attend her funeral today, he was granted permission to see his wife's body. After preparations had been made for him to visit the undertaking rooms, he changed his mind.

"As long as I live I want to remember Susan as she was while still alive. She is past those terrible last years. I am glad."

Erb will probably be placed in the prison hospital, officials indicated. As the result of a serious operation, Erb has not long to live.

Minneapolis, Aug. 10.—(U.P.)—Arthur Potvin, Minneapolis chiropodist, was killed today near Spring Park, when his car plunged over a 25 foot embankment and crashed into a telephone pole.

SOURCE OF EVIL

Mark 7:15, 21, 22, 23. Jesus said: There is nothing from without a man, that entering into him can defile him: but the things which come out of him, those are they that defile the man. 21. For from within, out of the heart of men, proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders. 22. Thefts, covetousness, wickedness, deceit, lasciviousness, an evil eye, blasphemy, pride, foolishness: 23. All these evil things come from within, and defile the man.

LONGING

How I long for the pines and the rolling hills
Where the wandering winds blow free.
How I long for the song of the whip-poor-will,
And the hum of the honey bee.
How I long for our little old log home,
Where we youngsters played of old.
How I long to roam near the old sand caves,
Where we hunted private gold.
How I long to hear my mother's voice,
As she called at the old log door.
How I long to see her smiling face
Sunny, though pain she bore.
How I long to hear my father's laugh,
Ring out in sailor's glee.
How I long to hear those thrilling tales,
Told of the life at sea.
How I long to hold my sweetheart's hand,
And follow those paths of old.
Oh time, bring back those days to me
Days, more precious than gold.

Earle Brown, Hero of the Highway

At last we have a department which is functioning from the very start.

We have a State Highway Patrol headed by an experienced man, Earle Brown, who know their business.

At 9 a. m. yesterday the First National bank of Elk River was robbed of $7,200 by three bandits.

At 11 a. m. Earle Brown and his deputy patrolman, Mike Auspos, went into action at Zimmerman and when the smoke of the running gun fight had cleared way, Superintendent Brown and Patrolman Auspos had captured two bandits, Brown had shot down the third and shortly after a girl, who had been in company of the bandits, was also in custody.

And all of the money stolen was recovered.

Brown disclaims any great credit for work done, in fact he says he was not operating as a highway patrol, but just happened to drive into Elk River a little while after the robbery and volunteered as a private citizen to set out after the robbers with his patrolman who was off duty.

Twin City papers report that Governor Christianson gave this tribute to Earle Brown: "Magnificent. Earle Brown is one of the finest, bravest and cleanest men in Minnesota. I'm proud that he is in the state's service. He gets his man."

Attorney General G. A. Youngquist said: "It was a splendid piece of work and the more remarkable when we consider the chances Brown was taking. He is the type of law enforcement agent we need, one who puts his duty above self."

If the shooting of one bandit and capture of two more, recovery of the money and taking into custody of a girl believed a confederate is an example of what Earle Brown can do within two hours after a crime is committed, acting only as a private citizen "who just happened along," we pity the underworld when Earle Brown acts in an official capacity.

Today Earle Brown is a real asset of Minnesota. It is concrete notice to the bandits operating in Minnesota or intending to make this state a field of operations, that Minnesota has a citizen who "gets his man."

Brainerd and Crow Wing county are particularly interested in Earle Brown. He has a beautiful summer home on Lake Mille Laes. He has recently bought another lake home, it is reported, on North Long Lake.

It may be remembered, too, that the first report of Earle Brown's launching his small Highway Patrol force early this summer, emanated from Brainerd where Mr. Brown had held a short conference with Sheriff Claus A. Theorin.

Brown may now be considered a real factor in Minnesota who contributes to bank security and who by his quick, Western action, has put the fear of God into any bandit gunman.

We take our hat off to Brown and say: "Boy, you certainly did a good job with your six-shooter."

There Is No Such Thing as Being Old

We have come to the conclusion that there is no such thing as being old. You are not so many years old, but so many years young.

Just follow the daily news reports and see how the supposedly old people are imbued with the irrepressible spirit of youth.

There is the 70 year young lady, Mrs. Susan Grove of Baltimore, who has asked the Niagara Falls Chamber of Commerce to sponsor her proposed trip in a barrel over Niagara Falls. It's dangerous business and she may be taking a drop too much.

Prominent in the local news today is Lyman D. Bissell of Bellingham, Wash., near 80 years young, who drove his car 1,900 miles in two weeks, and he doesn't have to take off his glasses to look at his speedometer. Mr. Bissell is active as a member of the Washington State Normal School.

Authentic cases of longevity are known in Ohio where men 106 years young walked 10 miles before breakfast on their respective birthdays.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, is no spring chicken, but he has as much enthusiasm, daring, initiative, self reliance as any "flaming youth" of 22.

There are no more old maids, or old men, in the world today. You are as young as you feel. If you want to sit at home, keep aloof like a hermit, cease to associate with young people and listen to the clock tick off the hours, no wonder you're growing old.

Get out in the open, keep moving, take an interest in the affairs of your country and neighborhood, help in community uplift, do your part in church and civic enterprise, quit the business of introspection, be a pal to the young people, and see how quickly you will stay young.

John Rockefeller plays golf at 90 years young. Mr. Rockefeller has ordered all clocks and calendars barred from his neighborhood. He has quit keeping tab of time.

Another "young man" came to Brainerd yesterday, Arch S. Johnstone, who built miles of the finest and most enduring brick work in Brainerd from 1883 to 1886. He checked up his work at the Northern Pacific shops, still standing, good as the day it was built. Work at the new high school had wiped out his walls there, but they told him they never encountered such sturdy brick walls as the ones Mr. Johnstone built and it took steam machinery and heavy wire cables and many men to level those old walls and make room for the new high school.

What makes "old" people young? What is the main attribute of youth? It's pep and enthusiasm. And the way the supposedly "old" people of today are taking their part in the world's work, shows that they have found the Ponce de Leon well of pep and enthusiasm and have called a halt on the march of the years.

CONGRESSMAN HAROLD KNUTSON of our Sixth Minnesota District will speak over WCCO at 6 p. m. Monday evening, August 12, taking as his topic the value to farmers of the Hawley tariff bill now before the special session of congress.

THE annual meeting of the Seventh Judicial District Bar association will be held in Little Falls on August 17. Senator C. Rosenmeier is general chairman of plans.

They Agreed to Disagree

By R. RAY BAKER

(Copyright.)

"DO YOU think we were made for each other, Fred?"

Fred Hamilton's lip curled in scorn. "Hardly. I have never thought so—except back in our school days, when I used to carry your books and share my jaw-breakers with you."

Eva Marlow adjusted a bouquet of roses in a vase on the table.

"Then why carry on this farce any longer? It's making us both miserable. We don't love each other; in fact, it's quite the reverse. For one thing, you're selfish."

"Thanks for the compliment," he said dryly, rising from the chair in which he had been seated. "Perhaps I am selfish, but remember I am an only child. To be frank, I have much the same opinion about you."

She lifted the vase and inhaled the fragrance from the flowers.

"Thanks for the compliment," she mocked. "Perhaps I also am selfish, but remember I, too, am an only child. It's nice to have an understanding, isn't it? It appears to be mutually agreeable for us to disagree."

"Decidedly," he acquiesced. "It was foolish for us to become engaged in the first place."

"We wouldn't have," she reminded him, "if it had not been for our parents."

When Fred left the apartment occupied by Eva and her aunt he was not in the best spirits imaginable. He was as glad to be free of Eva as she was to get rid of him, but that remark about selfishness rankled.

He had been driving abstractedly, when of a sudden a cry distracted him. A big touring car ahead had come quickly to a halt, but as abruptly it started off and disappeared. Jamming on the brakes, Fred managed to avoid striking a small, huddled human form on the street.

He looked with a feeling of curiosity for a moment. It was no concern of his, was his thought, until suddenly the trend of his recent recollection flashed back to his mind. "You're terribly selfish," were the words that echoed in his ears, and they prompted him to leave the car and join the group.

A man held the limp form in his arms. Fred recognized the pale face as that of a diminutive newsboy familiar to this busy corner.

"Poor kid," said the man. "That big car hit him and hurled away. What had I better do with him?"

"Take him to Doctor Wilson's office across the street," Fred directed.

"He will get along all right," said the doctor, "but he ought to be taken home at once."

The boy looked up wildly. "No—no!" he exclaimed in a plaintive little voice. "I can't go. I haven't sold my papers—my papers! Where are they?"

"That's all right," said Fred. "Come on with me and I'll take you home. I have the money for your papers. I sold them for you."

The lad lived with his father in a hovel in the worst part of the city. The father was an invalid.

"You are very good to us," said the father on the occasion of one of Fred's visits, "and there are other people who are good to us, too."

"And I like you best of anybody in the world," Little Jim told Fred, "except daddy and one other."

Came a day when Fred called to find Little Jim in tears. His father had suffered another stroke.

The sick man smiled sadly and raised his eyes appealingly to Fred. Then he uttered a deep sigh and lay back, closing his eyes. Little Jim's father had gone to a place where there are no invalids; and Fred understood that last mute appeal.

A little later Fred took the little orphan in his arms and carried him away.

The door at the foot of the stairs opened and a young woman started up the flight. Fred stepped aside with his burden to let her pass, but she came to a stop.

"What has happened?" inquired the voice of Eva Marlow. "And where are you taking my Little Jim? Why, it's—is that you, Fred?"

"It is," he said calmly but somewhat aggressively, "and I'm taking him home because his father is dead. And what do you mean by 'my Little Jim'?"

She appeared indignant.

"Why, I've been coming to see these people for some time. It started by your calling me selfish. That very day I came into this district to see if I could discover a way to become unselfish, and I found Little Jim and his father. I love the little fellow, and I am going to take him home with me."

"Not much you aren't," Fred said with firmness. "I am going to be his father."

"You are wrong," she declared just as firmly. "I am going to be his mother."

Little Jim reached out with one arm and encircled the girl's neck, while the other clung to Fred. It brought the two very close together.

First they looked at Little Jim, and then they gazed foolishly into each other's eyes, and slowly a smile crept across their countenances.

"Eva," said Fred, clearing his throat. "I don't believe I dislike you after all. You are not selfish, and—and after all, our parents' wishes—"

"Yes," she agreed, "our parents' wishes—"

GREAT BRITAIN EVENS MATCH SCORE FOR WIGHTMAN CUP

MRS. P. WATSON DEFEATS MISS JACOBS, 6-3, 6-2

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH TEAMS HAVE EACH WON TWO MATCHES

4 MATCHES, 3 SINGLES AND 1
DOUBLES, ARE ON TODAY'S PROGRAM

West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills, New York, Aug. 10.—(U.P.)—Great Britain evened the match score count in the Wightman Cup matches today when Mrs. Phoebe Watson defeated Miss Helen Jacobs, United States No. 2 singles player, 6-3, 6-2.

Each team now has won two matches.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Leading two matches to one in the seventh annual Wightman Cup series, the United States women players today were favored to regain the international tennis trophy from England in the final day's matches.

With four matches—three singles and one doubles—on today's program, the United States had only to gain an even break to win the series.

Thanks to some great singles playing on the part of the two California products Helen Wills and Helen Jacobs, the United States won two out of three matches yesterday, losing only the doubles engagement to the No. 1 British team of Mrs. Phoebe Watson and Mrs. Peggy Michell.

Miss Wills, who beat Mrs. Watson yesterday, 6-1, 6-4, was paired with Betty Nuthall, No. 1 player of the invaders, in the feature match of the series, scheduled to start at 4:30 P. M. today.

Miss Jacobs, who won a dramatic victory over Miss Nuthall on the opening day, 7-5, 8-5, opposed Mrs. Watson in the opening match today, starting at 2:30 P. M.

Miss Wills and Miss Jacobs were favored to repeat their triumph of the opening day and supply the two victories necessary to win back the trophy which England won last year, four matches to three.

In the second match today, scheduled to commence at 3:30 P. M., Edith Cross, blonde San Francisco stenographer, had Mrs. Peggy Michell, No. 3 player of the invaders, as an opponent.

With Miss Cross playing slovenly, Miss Wills was unable to carry the entire brunt of the attack in yesterday's doubles match and the American team lost to Mrs. Watson and Mrs. Michell, 6-4, 6-1.

RECORD EXHIBITS AT STATE FAIR

Agricultural, Livestock and Industrial Resources to be Displayed in "Show Window."

THE Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Livestock Show, Twin cities, August 31 to September 7, will present the greatest educational program in its history.

announces Cal Slivright, vice president and general manager.

Enlarged exhibits and new features, more pretentious than ever attempted before, will make the 70th annual fair an outstanding one. It will be a $25,000,000 exposition, vividly portraying all the progress that has been made in agriculture, livestock, industry and home-making in the Northwest the past twelve months.

The fair has been aptly called the "Show Window of the State." And why? Because it mirrors a true picture of all its resources. At no other place can such a clear picture be had of its many varied industries, such as dairying, livestock raising, farming, mining, manufacturing and industrial activities.

New classifications, changes in rules, and increased prizes offered have been contributing factors to the increased interest in this year's big educational program. Premiums totaling $131,035.00 have been set aside for educational features, a sum several thousand dollars in excess of the prize money offered a year ago.

Officials of the Northwest Livestock Show, staged in conjunction with the State Fair, have gone out of their way in an effort to make the livestock show an outstanding one. In the cat show an outstanding one. In the cat show an outstanding one.

the department will be exhibited many of the finest dairy and beef herds of the nation. More than 1,000 head of cattle, valued at $1,000,000, will be housed on the main floor of the Livestock Pavilion. Equally as fine exhibits of horses, sheep and swine have been arranged.

Forty counties of the state will have booth exhibits in the Agricultural building, featuring the finest grains, grasses and vegetables grown in their respective counties.

In the horticultural building will be found stupendous exhibits of fruits and flowers, making it one of the most attractive spots on the grounds.

And then there will be the demonstrations of the boys and girls enrolled in club work. Twelve hundred junior farmers, survivors of the 45,000 children who competed in the preliminary contests throughout the state, will meet in the finals to settle championships in the various projects that have been carried on the past year.

Machinery Hill, with its 80 acres of exhibits, showing all kinds of tractors, threshers, combines, and road equipment in action, will present the premier show of its kind in the country this year.

In the Fine Arts building will be a loan collection of canvasses from the leading art galleries of the nation valued at $1,000,000.

Exhibits that will appeal especially to the woman, whether she be from the urban or rural centers, will be featured in the Woman's Activities department. There will be exhibits touching on home-making, child training, food, clothes, art, travel, and politics.

VISITORS ANNEX GAME IN EXCITING LAST INNING RALLY

BYES TAKE LEAD EARLY IN THE GAME; LINCOLNITES SCORE
SEVEN IN LAST

LARGE CROWD VIEWS BATTLE;
DRAKE FOOTBALL CAPTAIN
HEAVY AT BAT

In an exciting game which was not decided until the final inning, the Lincoln Camp All Stars defeated the John M. Byes Clothing Co. last night at the Water Tower grounds in a game of diamondball, 13 to 9. From the spectators' point of view it was one of the most interesting games of the season.

One of the largest crowds of the season was on hand to witness the game, over 150 from Camp Lincoln coming to root for their team.

The Byes Clothing Co. scored four runs the first inning and were in the lead up to the last inning when with the score 9 to 6 in their favor, the Camp Lincoln team started a rally which together with three hits, three errors and three walks brought in seven runs and a margin to give them the game.

Bernard Foster, pitching for the Byes team, pitched a wonderful game and received at times spectacular support in the field. He was relieved by "Bic" Erickson in the 7th inning with the bases filled and none out but with the rally by the Lincoln team together with errors, enough runs were scored to win the game.

The Byes team took the lead early in the game, scoring four runs in the first. The score at the close of the second inning was 6 to 1 for Brainerd. The Byes scored one in the third and two in the fourth.

The Lincolnites brought home one man in the second, four in the fourth, one in the fifth and seven in the 7th. The star of the game was Jack Barnes, Drake football captain, who hit strong while at bat and played a spectacular game at short stop.

Prominent coaches and stars in various fields to sport made up the Camp Lincoln team:

The line-ups:
Camp Lincoln—"Chuck" Everett, p; "Bud" Price, c; E. S. Dean, 1b; B. B. Ebelheiser, 2b; Jack Barnes, ss; L. Fortier, ss; Andrew Geer, 3b; John Monahan, Fred Rogers, L. Braden, fielders.

Byes Clothing Co.—Nutting, 2b; Boyd, cf; Haultala, lf; Thorkelson, 3b; Foster, p; Erickson, 1b; Cunningham, rf; Schuety, c; Halvorson, ss; Dybvik, rss.

Previous to the game the Camp Lincoln boys enjoyed a picnic at Lum Park. Afterwards many attended the local theatre.

Standard Time
The United States Naval observatory has three standard clocks running in constant temperature vaults, electrically wound and sealed to keep the air pressure constant. Meridian circle observations of selected stars are taken regularly on clear nights, and from these observations the errors of standard clocks are determined. The observatory sends out time signals. Correct time is given over radio networks as an advertising device.

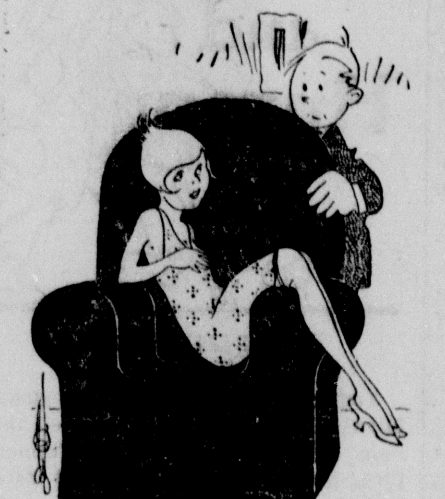

PRETTY POLL

For a long time the loquacious man in the barber's shop had made comments on the appearance of a parrot standing on a ledge over a mirror, saying it was the worst stuffed bird he had ever seen.

"Look at its legs!" he scoffed. "No parrot ever had legs like that. It couldn't stand on them!"

"Really?" said the parrot, lazily scratching the side of its head.

BRAINERD PLAYS PINE RIVER SUN.

VICTORY ASSURES LOCALS OF A PLACE IN PLAYOFF FOR LEAGUE HONORS

With 14 wins to their credit this year and but four defeats, two of these being to travelling teams, the Brainerd N. P. team will play one of its most important games of the season tomorrow afternoon at Pine River. A victory insures the locals a place in the playoff for the Northwoods Baseball League championship. A defeat stops their chances.

Watching the Scoreboard

(By United Press)

Yesterday's Hero—Guy Bush, Chicago pitcher, who came back after being touched for six hits and five runs in the second inning, to beat the Phillies, 12 to 6, his tenth successive victory. Bush, after that one bad inning, permitted only two hits, the Cubs opening their eastern invasion with a victory and maintaining a lead of six and one-half games over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Ralph Kress hit two homers, each time with a man on base, to assist the St. Louis Browns to beat the Chicago White Sox, 9 to 4. Ted Lyons and Rip Collins were hammered from the box.

The St. Louis Cardinals, National League champions, lost their twelfth straight game to the Pittsburgh Pirates. "Pie" Traynor's fourth hit of the contest scored Bartell with the winning run, the Pirates keeping pace with the Cubs by winning, 7 to 6.

Fred Fitzsimmons, husky right hander of the New York Giants, again defeated the Cincinnati Reds, this time at the Polo Grounds, 7 to 1. "Shanty" Hogan, recently disciplined, was the leading slugger with three hits, including a homer.

ASSOCIATION TABS

An eight-run attack in the sixth gave Kansas City's league-leading Blues a 10 to 1 victory over Columbus. Wagmouth held the Senators to five hits in six innings but developed a wild streak and was relieved by Nelson.

Louisville took the final game of the series with St. Paul, 11 to 6. The defeat cost the second place St. Paul club a full game and dropped them five and one-half games behind Kansas City.

Indianapolis' six-run rally in the fourth gave the Indians a 10 to 6 victory over Minneapolis. Burwell went the route for the winners.

Toledo and Milwaukee were idle.

FOR A HALF dozen seasons, Babe Ruth, practically by himself, was baseball's clouting king. Finally, his team-mate and friend, Lou Gehrig, banged his way into the home run ring and, this year, the national clouting circus has become at least a three-ring affair, crowded with performers of Ruthian proportions!

Ruth has been making gallant efforts to keep his place at the head of this great home run show, but Father Time, with his ill that beset athletic age, has been keeping Babe out of the game so much of late that it looks now as though 1929 will mark the start of the Ruthian eclipse.

Meanwhile, Chuck Klein of the Phillies, Mel Ott of the Giants, Hack Wilson of the Cubs, Lou Gehrig of the Yankees, Al Simmons of the Athletics and a half dozen others are preempting those home run rings in the diamond's clouting circus which Ruth bestrode like a Colossus for so many seasons.

Will the Kleins, the Otts, the Gehrigs and others surpass Ruth's extraordinary records? That is doubted, but some of them may come close to 60-for-a-season before home run epidemics abate.

Nor should Ruth be counted out now, as many experts erroneously attempted for a few years past. Because, as long as the Babe can stand at the plate, he will be liable to slam out homers. And he should be able to do that, between lay-offs, for a couple of more seasons at least.

While Ruth is able to take even occasional part in the clouting circus he will remain its most dramatic actor and factor. His name has been, and is and will be the inspiration of all homers, whether they be hit this year, next or a century from now.

Wherever hard hitting draws the fans the Babe will always be remembered as the Barnum & Bailey of the home run circus. His name already marks an era in baseball. Everyone knows we're in "The Age of Ruth."

DYKEMAN CHILD NEAR DEATH FROM BURNS

Echo Mary Dykeman, 3, Seriously Burned at Farm Home Last Evening

IN HOSPITAL HERE

Places Celluloid Comb in Flame of Lantern, Flames Burn Clothes From Body

Echo Mary Dykeman, three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Dykeman, of Dykeman, was in a critical condition at the St. Joseph's hospital today as a result of burns when her clothes caught fire from a celluloid comb which she had placed in the flame of a lantern while playing in the Dykeman home.

The child and her brother, Maurice, 5 years old, were alone in the house when the accident happened. Hearing screams from Maurice, members of the Dykeman family rushed to the house and wrapped Echo Mary in a blanket then rolled her on the floor to put out the flames which practically burned her clothes from her body. She was rushed to the Brainerd hospital where medical attention was given her.

The accident occurred about 7:30 o'clock. Her burns are confined chiefly to her body.

Hero Killed in Crash

Lieutenant Florentin Bonnet, war ace and France's entrant in the Schneider Cup Race, was instantly killed recently when his seaplane crashed at Bordeaux. Lieutenant Bonnet was holder of the world's speed record for land planes and had a notable record during the World War. He was awarded the French Military Medal and later the Cross of the Legion of Honor for his fighting exploits. His death brings to an end a colorful career.

Offers Egypt Freedom

If the Egyptian people agree to the terms of the treaty proposals made by Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Minister, Egypt will shortly be listed among the free countries of the world. The above map shows the Suez Canal area to which British troops will be withdrawn if a final settlement is reached. King Fuad of Egypt, in company with his Prime Minister, Mahamed Pasha, have left London, where the conferences were held, and are now enroute to Egypt to secure ratification of the treaty.

FARM STOCK

GOOD SIRES WILL RETURN PROFITS

Bull Will Influence More Calves Than Five Cows.

(By J. J. MOXLEY, Extension Live Stock Specialist, Kansas Agricultural College.)

In the opinion of Kansas cattlemen, a good sire is worth 20 per cent of the value of the cow herd. These same live stock raisers figure the sire will influence more calves than five cows during his lifetime.

The bull represents the corner stone for a foundation of successful cattle production. Closely connected with him is the right kind of cows. They should represent the good, big beef type.

In the Minnesota car lot baby beef contest, where the weight of a car load of calves at 15 months was the method of determining the winning load, calves out of the biggest, beefiest cows and sired by medium to big bulls were the ones which ranked at the top.

Giving consideration to a demonstration in Clay county the past year, a group of cows which would class as "good cows" were compared with those which were classed as medium in the weight and value of the calves. The good grade cows had calves weighing 80 pounds more than those out of the medium grade cows. Their calves were worth $1 per hundred more—making a difference for the year of $15.91 more in favor of the calves out of the good grade cows.

From every angle in the cattle production business, a good sire is a necessity and a good cow herd is a great help in the production of beef that will return a profit.

Proper Care of Horse's Feet Often Neglected

An important but oftentimes neglected job is to trim the feet of farm horses. In dry weather the feet become tough and hard and it is difficult to do anything with them. However, following a rain, or a spell of damp weather, they will cut easily, and it is no great effort to get them into shape for the season's work. Most farmers own a rasp which can be used to file down the rough, unsightly edges of the hoofs which have grown during the winter. Few farm horses are expected to work on cement or concrete roadways and they do not have shoes. A little judicious trimming at this time will give the horse better grip on the ground and more confidence to go at heavy pulls. The hoofs, also, should not be forgotten for the care which you give the feet of a colt may govern to a large extent the conformation of his legs at maturity.

Find Lambs on Pasture Are Most Profitable

Lambs produced on pasture are more profitable, is the conclusion of Purdue university agricultural experiment station after two years' work. When ewe and lambs were both fed on grain and hay the profit per lamb amounted to $4.11, and when both were pastured on timothy, oats and alfalfa pastures, the profit per lamb amounted to $9.81. "The market finish of the two sets of lambs was the same," said Claude Harper, sheep specialist.

"Does it pay to feed lambs on pasture?" is a question often asked by Hoosier farmers. Purdue found that lambs developed on pasture returned a profit of $9.81 and lambs fed grain on pasture returned a profit of $9.97 per lamb above feed costs.

Red Clover Excellent Pasture for the Hogs

Red clover makes an excellent pasture for hogs and ranks close to alfalfa as a forage. From the standpoint of the average farmer or hog feeder, it will probably be the most used forage crop particularly because it fits better into almost any system of crop rotation than does alfalfa. However, it will not usually support quite so many head per acre, nor will the forage season be quite so long, but if not pastured too closely and not allowed to go to seed, it will generally produce an abundance of good forage all summer. An acre of clover should furnish ample pasture for from 8 to 16 hogs if properly handled. Clover is high in protein and will replace a large part of the tankage or similar feeds, necessary to get maximum growth.

Cure for Worms

Tetrachlorethylene, in single doses, has been found to be approximately 100 per cent effective against the sheep stomach worm, and is also very effective against the hook-worm and some of the other round-worms found in the small intestine of the sheep. The drug is given in capsules, in doses of five cubic centimeters. The animal should not be fed for 12 hours before treatment. If possible, the drug should be administered by a veterinarian.

Naval Officers on World Tour

CAKES FOR THE PICNIC

No picnic is complete without a variety of cakes. Small ones are most convenient for serving and liked the best.

Oatmeal Macaroons.—Take one and three-fourths cups of rolled oats, put through the meat grinder after browning well in the oven, add one teaspoonful of salt, one-half cupful of sugar and one tablespoonful of butter, blended with the sugar. Flavor with vanilla and add a beaten egg. Drop by spoonfuls on a baking sheet and bake until crisp in a hot oven.

Raisin Drop Cakes.—Take four tablespoonfuls of shortening, one cupful of sugar, one beaten egg, two-thirds of a cupful of milk, one and three-fourths cups of flour, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, salt and one beaten egg, one cupful of seeded raisins, one teaspoonful of vanilla. Cream the shortening; add sugar; when well blended add the beaten egg and milk alternately with the flour which has been well sifted with the dry ingredients. Bake in small cake tins. Sprinkle with sugar before placing in the oven.

Chocolate Cookies.—Cream one-half cupful of shortening, add one cupful of sugar, one well beaten egg, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, two ounces of melted chocolate, two and one-half cups of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-fourth cupful of milk.

Butter Wafers.—Take one cupful of butter, two cups of sugar, two well-beaten eggs, one-third of a cupful of milk, one-fourth teaspoonful of soda, flavor with vanilla, add flour enough to roll very thin. Cut into rounds and bake in a hot oven. Sprinkle with sugar before baking.

Drop Cookies.—Take one cupful of shortening, two cups of sugar, five cups of flour, one cupful of sour cream, three eggs, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, salt and flavoring. Mix and drop with a teaspoon and flatten with a tumbler dipped in sugar. Add nuts if desired.

Alice's Three Wishes

By LEETE STONE

(Copyright.)

ONE early morning a window near the top of the tall Wabash building was pushed open and a very pretty, very tired face gazed out.

She looked down on the red-tiled roof of the building next door, a pygmy edifice, mustering but twenty stories. Alice was tired of keeping books, tired of office routine, tired of the scrambling, shoving, brutal subway jam morning and evening, tired of returning to a dreary two-room flat night after night.

Where would it all end? In a balance at the bank, perhaps, that would save her, some day, from an Old Ladies' home, where the inmates knitted and crocheted.

True, there was the handsome, rugged young office manager, Sidney Jevons, courteous to all the girls, and so it sometimes seemed to Alice, especially considerate of her; but, then, he wasn't looking for a hard-working office girl. Gossip allied Jevons with the treasurer's daughter, whose sable-wrapped figure was a familiar sight on this, the executive floor.

No, men today did not wish women to love them, mused Alice, eyeing a fleet of wheeling pigeons, animated specks against the sky; they wanted women of independent affluence and position, whose social and financial prestige would aid their business climb. Her mind raced back to doll days and the childish game of Three Wishes. All three of Alice's wishes were for a real baby to croon to and play with—a baby that cried! Well, that was that!

Sighing, Alice raised a slim hand to close the window and saw Tommy on the red-tiled roof below. Tommy was in distress. Tommy was howling.

A girl of ten or so was hanging clothes on a line stretched from chimney to chimney on the roof, and five youngsters of assorted sizes and sexes were being admonished severely by the ten-year-old little mother not to go near the wet sheets and dirty them. All the while wee Tommy howled.

Suddenly a bulging and capacious female issued from the roof door and deposited a resounding slap on Tommy's round, red cheek.

Alice wanted to sit right down with Tommy next her heart and cry with him. Her sense of loneliness and heart hunger, her frazzled nerves, and the permeating presence of spring in the air all added their quota to her feeling.

"Anyway," Alice whispered, shutting the window, "I'll make that baby forget that slap—somehow!"
One later, warmer day when the window stayed open, Alice heard childish voices again floating in from the roof below. She listened.

"But didn't I tell you I don't want a Teddy Bear? I want a dolly—a squeeze dolly—I want a—"

"You're a boy, ain't you, Tommy? You ought to be 'shamed to want a dolly. I want a dolly. I'm a girl! You ought to want a Teddy Bear. I ain't goin' to play Wishes with you no more, Tommy." Little mother went to the other end of the roof.

Next day Alice watched and listened for the janitor's children on the red-tiled roof below her window. At last!

"No, Tommy, they ain't no such things as fairies. You're silly! Come on, let's play! Shut your eyes and make three wishes. I got something in my hand behind my back. Listen, now! Don't go wishin' for no dollies."
"Tandy!" Tommy promptly shrieked, and little mother poked a huge marshmallow between the rosy lips.

"I want a dolly—I want a dolly—I want a doll—" the baby insisted, as mastication permitted.
The psychological moment had arrived for Alice. Leaning far out of her window she took fair aim. Plop, fell something square on Tommy's fat legs. And plop! Another something fell right in little mother's lap.

Little mother jumped up and searched the heavens high above and all sides with wide, ecstatic eyes. Cloudless skies, and the brick walls of a familiar building were all she saw. No sign of fairy, magic carpet, witch or goblin. But in her scrawny little arms a beautiful doll. And in Tommy's arms, short, pudgy and wonderstruck, a "squeeze" doll.

Neither of the children could be told that these were painted toys from the shelf of a shop. No, indeed! These were real dollies to be loved, caressed and talked to, put to bed and taken up, kissed, scolded and adored. Fairies were real! They were the glorious creators of the game of "Shut Your Eyes and Make Three Wishes!"

"What in the world are you looking at so intently, Miss Arno?" said Sidney Jevons, the handsome office manager, coming to Alice's side as she stood, a little back from the window, looking down.

"The two happiest children in New York," Alice quietly replied. "They believe in fairies—good fairies. You see . . ."

UNKNOWN ISLANDS IN PACIFIC OCEAN

Area Near Equator Not Adequately Charted.

Washington.—Even though modern mapmakers have charted almost every scrap of land on the earth, whether large or small, there may still be some uncharted islands in the vast stretches of the Pacific. Successors to Defoe, wishing to write of an unknown island upon which their hero is shipwrecked, might still do so without fear of contradiction if they placed it in the Pacific ocean, slightly south of the equator and about 100 miles south of the Caroline Islands. This region is to the north of New Guinea; it is out of the way of steamer tracks and has never been adequately charted.

But, on the whole, Robinson Crusoe would have a difficult time today trying to find an unknown desert island to get wrecked upon. In his time, a little more than 200 years ago, the Pacific ocean was dotted with thousands of unknown, uncharted islands, both verdure-clad and barren.

Recalls Selkirk's Isle.

The profusion of these oceanic oases, especially in the equatorial region, and the fact that they were not placed on any sailing charts, made it an easy matter to pick out a nice, lonely island as remote from the world of men as a corner lot on Mars. Alexander Selkirk, the original Robinson Crusoe, lived on the island of Juan Fernandez, 300 miles west of Valparaiso, for three years without seeing another human being.

The story of the discovery and charting of the Pacific's islands is a fascinating tale, replete with romance and studded with the names of many doughty adventurers. Islands have been discovered, lost, and in some cases rediscovered. The Solomon Islands, for instance, were lost for two centuries and then found again. Most interesting, however, are those phantom isles, sighted once or twice by mariners of sailing ships and then never seen again. A great deal of this island hide-and-seek was due to uncertain methods of determining latitude and longitude at sea. The rest was due to the sighting of floating patches of marine life which, at a distance, looked like islands, to submarine earthquake and volcanic action which might push a mass above the surface of the water temporarily, and to the ever-active imaginations of deep-water sailors.

Thousand Phantoms Reported.

Fifty years ago, more than a thousand tiny phantom isles were reported to freckle the Pacific's 70,000,000 square miles. The United States Hydrographic office, at that time, published a "list of reported dangers in the Pacific ocean." The list, in three volumes, contained over 3,000 reported shoals, reefs, and islands, most of them with the notation, "existence doubtful" or "position doubtful." To day, the majority of these reported dangers, especially the islands, have definitely "disappeared." So have sea serpents and the other chimeras which once did the adrenalin act to adventurous sailors' hearts.

Although possible, it is improbable that other islands may be discovered in the vastness of the Pacific wilderness of waves.

Heir to Millions Loses

Job; Overstays Leave

Milwaukee, Wis.—Even the rich are subject to disciplinary action when they overstay their vacations.

Proof of this is offered by William Woods Plankinton, Jr., twenty-one, who last year took a $20 a week job in New York, after falling heir to a fortune of millions.

The youthful scion of the packing company finally is here today looking for a job.

"I got fired for taking too long a vacation in Europe recently," Mr. Plankinton explained. "My boss was J. C. Stewart, a building engineer, who incidentally is also my maternal grandfather."

Mr. Plankinton's quest for work is carried on in company with his friend, Frank Lee, of San Francisco. As a diversion the young men take moving pictures of their travels.

Mule Boss Shows How and Gets Shown by Gad

Chicago.—The open spaces of Montana sent two products to an Evanston construction job, Albert Downing, superintendent, and Gad, a mule.

Gad had a Fourth of July hang-over and refused to work. Downing was summoned.

"Boys, I'll show you how we handle these birds in Montana," he said. Thereupon he smote Gad forcefully with a piece of plank. Gad whirled like a flash. Two hoofs shot out, landing on Mr. Downing's jaw. He was out when the ambulance arrived. The doctors at the hospital marveled that he had any jaw left. They took ten stitches.

Gad was given a day off.

San One-Arm Drivers

Boston.—Massachusetts motorists may either drive or pet, but they mustn't do both at the same time, George A. Parker, register of motor vehicles, has ruled. "Anyone who drives while having his arm around a girl or allows her to sit on his lap is not a proper person to operate a car," he said.

INQUEST HELD OF WOMAN THOUGHT SLAIN

Aitkin County Authorities Probing Death of Mrs. William Murray

AT MURRAY'S INN

Body of Woman Found in Woods Near Their Summer Resort

A verdict of "murder by persons unknown" was expected to be returned today in the death of Mrs. William Murray, whose mutilated body was found near her summer resort home, Murray's Inn 10 miles north of McGregor late Saturday.

Following the inquest, which was called at 10 A. M. today by Dr. E. E. Seavey, Aitkin county coroner, the body was to be taken to Aitkin for burial. Witnesses at the hearing included Sheriff C. S. Lind, County Attorney Fred Allen and several summer residents in cottages owned by Mrs. Murray.

According to the report returned by Dr. Charles E. Granger, the woman probably was killed late Thursday. The physician said her forehead and scalp were bruised and one side of her throat slashed with a knife.

The body was found in a clump of trees near the Murray cottage where, Dr. Granger said it evidently had been dragged by the slayer.

Meanwhile the sheriff's office at Aitkin reported no evidence pointing toward suicide had been found. It was not known if money was kept in the cottage, which was found in an orderly condition.

Mrs. Murray had been alone several days at the cottage since her husband and father-in-law left for North Dakota.

As reported by the sheriff's department at Aitkin, the body of Mrs. Murray had a cut over her eye on the forehead, two scalp wounds at the back of her head and the right side of her throat cut as by a knife. The body when found was clothed only in under garments and lay in the woods near the Murray home. The Murray dog was standing guard it is said.

The Murray family of McGregor have no realtions in the country near Brainerd.

AGENTS BUY BEER

"Nuisance" Charge Against Meyers Reveals That Sale Was Made

Further investigation of the "nuisance" charge against Wm. E. Meyers, Dykeman to which he pleaded guilty in municipal court Thursday and was fined $50 and costs disclosed today that the federal prohibition agents in addition to the day of the search, July 13, when ten quarts of beer were seized, had procured beer from Meyers on July 3 and 4.

The federal department felt that it was a case where leniency should be extended and therefore requested the state to prosecute under a misdemeanor charge.

Meyers told the court when arraigned that he brewed the beer for a friend, whom he referred to as a prominent young Brainerd business man, and that the beer found by the federal was the "left over" from this.

Three New Cars Added to the Chrysler Group

Walter P. Chrysler today announces the introduction of three new lines of 6-cylinder cars bearing his name.

The three new Chryslers have been christened the "77," the "70" and the "66." The "77" has a price range from $1,595 to $1,795; the "70" from $1,245 to $1,395 and the "66," the first 6-cylinder under $1,000 to bear the Chrysler name, from $985 to $1,065.

Many noteworthy engineering advancements have been embodied in the new cars.

Chrysler presents for the first time the revolutionary downdraft carburetion, a principle of fuelization new in automobile engineering. Airplanes have had a somewhat similar system but it has not been used heretofore on passenger cars.

Externally, the new Chrysler models have no counterpart in present day design. A higher and wider radiator makes the frontal area more impressive than ever. Beautifully molded "air wing" fenders have arcs that are in perfect accord with the arched hood, curved bumper and graceful slender-profile radiator shell. The large headlamps are of new design. Attractive screen-type lamps are located on the front pillars just below the windshield visor. All bright work is chromium plated.

Meteor Incased in Ice

It is recorded that a meteor that fell at Dhurmsala, India, in 1890, was found coated with ice half an hour or so after its fall; in spite of the great heat generated by friction of the atmosphere the meteor had not had time enough to become heated through. In its interior it still retained the temperature of empty space, some hundred degrees below zero.

BOND DEMANDED OF PUBIX BY COUNCIL

$25,000 Bond Requested by City Council to Insure Completion of Construction

BY JANUARY 1, 1930

License of Lyceum to be Automatically Revoked in Five Days if Bond Not Posted

The city council at a special meeting yesterday requested the Publix Theatre Corporation to post a bond of $25,000 to insure completion of construction at the Park theatre by January 1, 1930 such bond to be furnished within the next five days. In the event of the failure to provide such bond within the specified time the council voted to revoke the Lyceum theatre license.

Action followed the statement by Arthur J. Sullivan, counselor for W. R. Hiller, manager of local theatres, and members of the firm of Lidenberg and Kaplan, architects that work would be commenced immediately at the Park theatre. Work started at the theatre this morning.

The council voted to rescind its former action calling for the revocation of Lyceum and Park theatre licenses as ordered by the council that unless work was started in correcting the alleged health and fire hazards at the Lyceum and starting construction at the Park the licenses of both would be automatically revoked.

The council by resolution last evening approved the transfer of the Lyceum theatre license to the Publix Theatres Inc.

On order of Mayor F. E. Little the Lyceum was closed yesterday afternoon before the matinee, notice being given by Chief of Police Thomas J. Templeton. The theatre was not reopened until 7:50 p. m. after the special meeting.

Aldermen in attendance at the special meeting were: R. H. Paine, Ernest Ritari, Andrew Wesley, Frank J. Johnson, W. J. Hall, Chris Elvig, H. W. Creger.

Representing the city in the legal phase of the question was Clem A. Ryan, attorney.

SALE AUGUST 17 AND 18

Spent $30,000 on Roads Which Were Completed Last Fall, Power Line Built

Sherwood Forest, platted on Gull Lake by Tingdale Brothers, Inc. of Minneapolis, will be the scene of a sale of cabin sites on August 17 and 18. The sale starts at noon on Saturday.

In speaking of the lake shore subdivision, Warren Tingdale, an officer of the corporation, said that $20,000 was spent last year on roads. The Northwestern Public Utilities is placing poles to bring light and power to the addition.

Cabins ranging in price from $300 to $12,000 have already been constructed in the immediate vicinity of Sherwood Forest Lodge, the latter a wonderful structure of logs.

80 YEARS OLD AND EXCELS AS CAR DRIVER

Lyman D. Bissell in Remarkable Record, Motoring From West Coast to Brainerd

WILL CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

He and His Wife Are Now Guests of Their Daughter, Mrs. Benjamin C. Heald, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman D. Bissell of Bellingham, Wash., are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Benjamin C. Heald, Jr., at Minnewawa Lodge, Lake Hubert.

Mr. Bissell, who will celebrate his 80th birthday in two weeks, has driven his own car from Bellingham, through Yellowstone park, arriving 15 minutes ahead of his schedule. He made the trip of 1,900 miles in two weeks, talking in all the sights along the way.

The Bissells were pioneers in St. Paul, spending their younger years and raising a family of four children. Mr. Bissell was associated with the St. Paul Dispatch for many years, and later conducted his own printing business in the city.

Twenty-five years ago they moved to Bellingham, to benefit Mrs. Bissell's health. For the last 12 years Mr. Bissell has been an instructor in Industrial Art at the Washington state normal school, and is retiring of his own accord to enjoy a few years of vacation before he "gets old" he says.

From here they expect to visit the State Fair at St. Paul, visiting a daughter, several grandchildren and great grandchildren, as well as old family friends, and make their return trip to the coast before the snows bury the mountain passes.

by SAMUEL SPEWACK

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

PHILLIP EDISON is host at a night-club party to his just-recently-divorced wife and Oliver Sewell, sportsman and Don Juan. Edison presumes that Sewell and the divorcee are to be married. When the party breaks up, Edison goes to Sewell's home and, while he is waiting his return, is informed Sewell has been found dead. Inspector Marx began a police investigation. He questions Sewell's Russian valet. The elevator operator is also questioned. He did not see Sewell return. A young medical examiner, with a taste for detective work, assists Marx. Their search of the apartment reveals complete wardrobes for women in different colors. In a safe-deposit box they find a scrap of paper bearing the inscription, "Paid in Full." The following day a Major Preston, who has been a sporting associate of Sewell's, is interrogated. Then Sewell's widow visits the apartment. She intimates that Preston might know something. As the investigators are standing, after Mrs. Sewell's departure, looking at a mirror door, it opens, and Mrs. Edison appears. She relates a story which the police do not believe. After she leaves, her lawyer threatens Marx with political reprisals if the woman is molested. Then Edison visits the apartment. As he goes out a shot is heard. The Russian butler is found dead and Edison is arrested. Mary Pennell, whose clothes are found in the apartment, is questioned. She identifies the "Paid in Full" note as in her uncle's, the Major's handwriting. A diary belonging to the dead butler is found. It relates a story of the famous Shah diamond which came into his hands in Russia while Sewell was there. Sewell gets possession of the diamond and takes it and the Countess Kurasova to America. The butler follows and enters Sewell's employ. He unearths evidence of Sewell's relations with the Countess. Also the actions of the may visitors Sewell entertained. Marx and the doctor learn that another man occupied the apartment with Sewell. Mary Pennell receives a mysterious note requesting her to meet the writer at Sewell's apartment if she wishes to clear Edison of all suspicion. As Marx leads her to the door, the secret passage opens and Preston appears. He gives a full account of his dealings with Sewell. He also tells of having stayed with Sewell the night of the crime because the latter's life was threatened. Preston denies the crime. The medical examiner calls on the Countess Kurasova.

CHAPTER XXIV.

"ARDON the intrusion," the doctor began, "but my visit is semi-official."

He explained his status in the case.

"Ah, yes, yes," she murmured. "I am at your disposal. I wish to be of help to the police, for Mr. Sewell was my friend. Of course, I know nothing. You understand that?"

"Quite," said the doctor.

She motioned him to a chair, and then seated herself. She adopted a pose in which she fancied herself the picture of a young lady of fashion trying earnestly to think, as indicated by a slender finger placed vertically to her white forehead, over which her black hair fringed.

"Miss Kurasova," said the doctor, "I was struck in reading a statement by the butler that when you discovered Sewell had been robbed of the diamond you did not seem to take it to heart. Ordinarily a woman would rend the air with her shrieks at the mere thought of losing a diamond worth a fortune. But you accepted it calmly enough. I take it."

"How do you know of the diamond?" the girl interrupted him, as she broke her pose, for the doctor's announcement started her.

"We know many things," the doctor said, employing the trite police formula. And then he decidet it would not be amiss to tell her a little more. "You see, your late fiancé, the butler, kept a diary and he recorded many things, among them his search for this stone and how he came to get it."

The doctor looked at her, with the glint of a smile in his eyes. She had half-arisen from the chair.

"Please don't excite yourself," begged the doctor.

She fell back into the chair.

"Now, Miss Kurasova, what was the truth of the diamond. Of course it wasn't stolen from Sewell."

"No," she said slowly. "It wasn't."

"And you knew that at the time?"

"I didn't!" she shouted angrily. "I didn't know it. Sewell himself told me it had been stolen and I believed him. Why shouldn't I? He posed as a millionaire. He said he loved me. Do you think I would suspect him of treachery then?"

"When did you begin to suspect?" prompted the doctor.

"When I got to America. When he ceased being attentive to me. Oh, I might as well admit it to myself. He grew tired of me. Then I began to think. And then I felt—I knew—he had cheated me. He still had the stone."

"And did you know your late fiancé was determined to get it back?"

"Yes, and I didn't tell Sewell. I'll tell you the truth. I wanted to wash my hands of the whole business. I am superstitious, perhaps. But to me that stone is associated with tragedy. Think of what that stone had done to thousands of people. Think of what it has done to our royal family. Look at the tragedy it has caused since Sewell is dead. Ivan Stanupin is dead. Long before the murder, I had acquired a dread of that stone. I had started a new life. I wanted to forget it, forget everything associated with it."

"And you weren't hard enough pressed for money to discard your superstitions?" suggested the doctor.

"No," said the girl, and then she smiled with Slavic frankness. "My American admirers have been quite generous."

The doctor bowed.

"A tribute to our great country."

She laughed.

"Don't you see," she said, "that I could have no interest in the stone? I love jewels, and I always fear jewels. And of this stone I was in mortal terror."

"By the way," asked the doctor casually, "when did you last see Sewell?"

"I haven't seen him for months," said the girl. "Not for months. He was tired of me. Perhaps I was tired of him. In any case, we rarely saw each other. He was an interesting man. Very interesting. There was something about him that always attracted me to him. Perhaps it was his strangeness. There was a mystery about him that I couldn't explain in so many words." She smiled wisely. "I was a little sad when the end came. But it was just as

"And I suppose you cried bitterly," said the doctor, "when you read of his death."

"Yes," she said. "I did. But I cry very easily. I am very emotional."

The doctor smiled.

"I take it you had no love left for Mr. Sewell."

"No."

"And none for the butler."

"No."

"You are a very self-sufficient woman."

"I have learned to be self-sufficient in your country. In Russia I was different."

The doctor shook his head sadly. "You know, Miss Kurasova," he said, "that there is one thing about you that I don't quite understand."

"What?"

"Why you lie so clumsily. But then you are not unique in that. I recently met a gentleman connected with this case who lied just as clumsily. This gentleman, however, had a change of heart, I am informed."

"Why do you say I lie?"

"Because I know the truth."

FALL PIGS EXACT BEST MANAGEMENT

Should Run on Forage After Weaning to Get Start.

Fall pigs should be given a chance to run on forage crops for a time after weaning, says the animal husbandry department of the Ohio State university. This practice will give them a better start for the long winter months. Fall pigs demand the best of attention to feeding and handling if they are to be profitable to the grower.

During the growing and fattening periods concentrates fed to the pigs should be of high energy value with some protein supplement, or a combination of protein supplements. Corn probably is the best feed from the point of energy value, but must be balanced with high protein foods. Skim milk and buttermilk, both of them high in protein and mineral matter, are good to balance grains. Two and one-half to three pounds of milk should be fed with one pound of corn for 50-pound pigs. As the animals grow the proportion of milk may be decreased.

Tankage, fish meal, alfalfa meal or oil meal should be fed where milk is not available. A combination of 50 per cent fish meal or tankage, 25 per cent alfalfa meal, and 25 per cent oil meal has been successfully used with corn or other feed to start the pigs. About 15 to 20 per cent of the protein supplement should be fed in the beginning, and gradually decreased until at the finishing period only about 5 per cent is fed.

Tried Sows Found Most Profitable as Breeders

Old sows may be more profitable than gilts for next spring's crop of pigs, says E. F. Ferrin of the animal husbandry department at University Farm.

"The spring pigs grown this year have had very scanty grain allowances, consequently most of the gilts are small and undersized," he says. "These gilts are more miniature and undeveloped than during ordinary seasons. The litters from gilts such as these are apt to be disappointing next spring."

"On some farms there are thin sows still in the prime of breeding efficiency that have not yet been fattened for market because of the scarcity of grain during the summer. These sows will yield a good profit if bred to farrow next spring, providing they take the place of the undersized gilts. The sows can be bred to farrow earlier than the gilts and accordingly late farrowing of next year's crop can be avoided."

"A yearling or two-year-old sow will farrow and raise more pigs than a gilt because she is a selected brood sow. There is always an uncertainty as to how a gilt will suckle her litter, while the old sows which have been disappointing go to market. On the average from one and one-half to two pigs more per litter can be raised to weaning age from tried sows than from gilts."

Frequent Attention Is Needed by Self-Feeder

One advantage of the self-feeder is that it will probably save some labor, but the amount of labor saved depends somewhat on the size and type of the feeder. A small feeder requires frequent filling, and practically all feeders require considerable attention to see that the feed is feeding down properly. Frequent attention should be given to see that feed is not being nosed out and wasted and that, if the feeders are in separate compartments, the hogs are not eating too much of the protein feeds and not enough of the others, or vice versa.

Live Stock Notes

A shade for the hogs pays.

Cattle given free access to corn silage and alfalfa will balance their own rations.

The greatest mistake in feeding orphan lambs, is in feeding too much and too often.

Nothing will solve as many problems of the pork producer as will plenty of good pasture.

Many stockmen fail to balance their rations because they feel it necessary to feed what they have at hand.

Where pastures supplement grain rations for hogs, a saving in concentrate feed is made, the ration is improved from a dietetic angle, healthfulness is promoted, and the hog is brought to a marketable age at a lower cost than where grain feeding in pen or dry lot prevails.

On many farms a small flock of sheep should be profitable. It does not cost a great deal in either money or labor to keep a flock of sheep, and there is a double return from them in the form of mutton and wool.
